Mendes, an Associate Professor at Monash University in Melbourne, describes his book, published in 2014, as “the first publication to provide a systematic historical and political overview of the relationship between Jews and the left.”.

We think this can be explained by the high average IQ of Jews in combination with their being a persecuted minority, which has tended to push them toward political views that emphasize social toleration and the free movement of people.

For Henry Ford and more than a few on the modern left, the Jews are the international bankers secretly pulling the strings of the global economy. I absolutely love the comment section here. Kevin Mac is without doubt one of our finest men on the academic battle front...but I would like to make one point here. Jews absolutely, unequivocal ly, should never be accepted unless their intentions are to drop Judaism and become born again Aryans, a phrase I coined a while back.
